

- Many gases are available for use in compressed gas cylinders, in which they are stored at high pressures. Calculate the mass of oxygen gas that can be stored at 20 °C and 170 atm pressure in a cylinder with a volume of 60.0 L.

2

Answer: