

- Radioactive elements are used in medicine both as tracers and to treat diseases such as cancer. Describe what the ideal half-life of an element is for each application, and state the reasons for your choices.

3