

- The atomic radius decreases across a period and increases down a group within the periodic table. Explain these observations.