

- Explain why surface effects are important in colloidal systems.

2

The small size of the colloidal particles means that they have a very large total surface area.

The colloid can be stabilised by steric and/or electrostatic effects.

If surface interactions are unfavourable, they are minimised by flocculation and coagulation.