

- During lectures a demonstration was performed called the “One pot experiment”. In this experiment, silver ions reacted with an alternating series of anions and ligands to form insoluble precipitates and soluble complexes. Explain how an insoluble precipitate can possibly be “dissolved” by the addition of ligands to the solution.

2